MUSICAL NOTES. If The Birmingham Post is to be believed

Gouned is at work on another oratorio, "Mors et Vita," which he thinks will surpass "The Redemption." Mr. Frederick W. Thursch announces a series of free organ recitals in Trinity Church at half-past 8 o'clock on the afternoons of November 1, 8, 15 and 29.

An Euglish version of Millöcker's "Bettel-Student" will be given at the Casino, beginning tonight. The performers are Mr. McCaull's company of Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," the novelty promised by Mr. Abbey, will be put in study at once at the Imperial Opera in Vienna. Madame Lucca is to take

A committee appointed recently at a joint meeting of the Orpheus and Liedertafel in Buffalo is expected in this city soon. They are coming to confer with Theodore Thomas, Dr. Damrosch, Mr. Mapleson and Mr. Abbey regarding a proposed musical festival to be held in Buffalo next May.

Hofcapellmeister Helmesberger, in Vienna, recently gave performance to a hitherto unknown mass of Mozart's in C minor. The work was written in 1771 when Mozart was fifteen years old, and is described as containing interesting features; among others the use of four numbers and three trombones.

The Paris Clairon charges Zell and Gence, the authors of the libretto of Strauss's "Night in Venice," with having piliered the plot and whole scenes of the operetta from "Château Trompette," a comic opera by Jules Cormon and Michael Carré, which was given with music by Gevaert at the Opera Comique in 1860.

Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde" was performed for the first time in Vienna on October 4. Herr Winkelmann and Frau Materna filled the title roles and Hanns Richter was the conductor. The fact that the opera was shortened by several bold exclaions caused load complaints from the devotees of the dead composer.

Johann Strauss had not yet enjoyed the triumph of his "Nacht in Venedig" when he accepted a book from Eduard Bauernfeld, a clever Viennese comedy writer. The title of the new opers, which is to be com. posed for the Hofoper, is "Der Junge Herzog" ("The Young Duke"), and the scene is laid at the court of Louis The Handel and Haydn Society in Boston will open its season this year with a Luther memorial concert on November 11, at which Bach's cantata, "A Stronghold Sure," and Mendelssohn's " Hymn of Praise " will be sung. On Christmas Day the society will perform "The Messlah," on Good Friday Bach's "St. Matthew Passion Music," and on Easter Sunday Mendelssohn's "St. Paul." Dr. Hanslick's famous little book on musical esthetics, "Vom Musikalisch-Schönen," which for some nexplicable reason is, we believe, still awaiting a translation into English, has been issued in Italian by Ricordi, in Milan. Luigi Torchi, of Bologna, is the translator, and the title of the book is "Del Bello nella Musica." The German original has run through six editions and has been rendered into French, Spanish, Dutch and Italian.

Gustav Amberg, the director of the Thalia Theatre, says that the receipts during last week were the largest in the history of his house, by which he probably means since the old Bowery Theatre fell into the hands of the Germans. The bill which brought this unprecedented success was Millocker's operetta, "Der Bettelsetudent," and being of a mind to let very well alone Mr. Amberg will continue to give the sparkling operetta all

A concert the proceeds of which will be devoted to a home for destitute men is announced to take place at the Academy of Music to-merrow evening. The published list of performers is so long that if each bas no more than one number on the programme the night will hardly compass the performance. Among the familiar names are those of Mme. Florence Rice-Knox, Mile. Ronka de Revasz, C. Fritsch, L. G. Gottschalk, Franz Remmertz and E. Agramonte.

The siren song of Lurline is forever haunting the German musicians. Mendelssohn, to whom the majority of modern operas were an abomination, chose it for the opera which he longed to write, but could not com-plete. Many others have worked with the beautiful sub-ject, and now it has again been formed into an opera. The music of "Die Loreley?" which has been accepted for presentation by the director of the Stadt Thentre in Bres-tao, is by Adolph Mohr, Capellmeister of the Thalia Theatre in Hamburg.

A professional alliance has been formed between Miss Rose Eytinge and Miss Lillian Cleves, who will make a tour of the United States, acting in "The Princess of Paris." Miss Eytinge and Miss Cleves are Attness of Paris." Miss Eylinge and Miss Cleves are handsome women and are well matched in many ways. The company comprises A. H. Hastings, Frank Budworth, A. H. Simpson, John Marshall, H. E. Johnson, H. Kingsley, Miss Alice Newton and La Petite Newton. The managers of this troupe are Cyril Scarle and Clark S. Sammis. The repertory comprises "A Winter's Tale," "Rose Michel," "A Woman of the People," and "Oliver Twist."

"In the Ranks" will be produced at the Standard Theatre to-morrow evening, after careful preparation, and with the following cast:

NOTES FROM NEWPORT.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 28 .- The engagement of Miss Wright, daughter of H. Allen Wright, of New-York, to the Rev. Dr. C. G. Gilliat, of Pottsville, Penn., has been announced here. The members of the Wright family are spending the winter at their cottage in Khode Ysland-ave. Mrs. S. S. Whiting, of New-York, gave a lunch party on Thursday, and on the same evening John Whippie, of New-York, entertained Admiral Porter at dinner. Mrs. C. M. Oelrichs, of New-York, will remain at her cottage all winter. Mr. Oelrichs has gone to his cuttle cottage all winter. Mr. Oelrichs has gone to his cattle ranche in the west. Colonel Jerome N. Bomparte and Mayor T. K. Gibbs will vacate their cottages on Tuesday. Admiral Porter, who is in feeble health, is the guest of his son-h-law, Lieutenant Logan.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bell. Jr., Mr. and Mrs. David King, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Rice and H. A. C. Taylor have returned to their cottages. Oliver H. P. Belmont, of New-York, has taken up his winter residence at his father's farm in the adjoining town of Portsmeuth. Mrs. S. S. farm in the adjoining town of Portsmeuth. Mrs. S. S. Whiting and her family are at their cottage at Webster-st. and Bellevus-ave. James M. Drake, of New-York, has sold his steam yacht "N'Importe."

CHARGES AGAINST GEN. WILLIAM MYERS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.-Last Tuesday D. B. Vermilye was arrested here on a charge of embezzling $3,000 of the funds of the Weems Stone Company, and at the same time General William Myers brought an action for slander against him for alleged statements to the effect that General Myers had been guilty of indiscretions with his (Vermilye's) wife. Subsequently Indiscretions with his (Vermilye's) wife. Subsequently Vermilye made an explicit denial of the truth of these allogations, and it was generally understood that the suits would be withdrawn and the natter end. A dispatch from St. Faul, however, says that Vermilye on Saturday filed a bill for divorce in which he alleges long-continued and persistent criminal intimacy between Mrs. Vermilye and General Myers, in St. Faul, Chicago, New-York, on the Continent of Europe and elsewhere.

THE RAILROAD TROUBLE AT ROCK POINT,

PITTSBURG, Oct. 28 .- A dispatch to The Commercial Gazette from New-Castle, Penn., says; "Sheriff Douds and a posse of ten left here last night in a wagon for Rock Point with an order of attachment from Judge McJunkin to arrest the officers and employes of the Pennsylvania Ball-road Company for contempt of court. At an early hour this morning they arrested forty-four of the employes and lodged them in Jall. Nothing of importance was done at Bock Point to-day, and it now looks as if Chauncey Andrews and the Pittsburg, Youngs-town and Chicago Company were victorious for the present."

WOMANS NATIONAL INDIAN ASSOCIATION,

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—The annual meeting of the Womans' National Indian Association was held here yesterday. Mrs. Crannell, secretary of the Eastern New-York Association, read a paper on "The Capabilities of Indians." Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, made an address explaining how the Indians have suffered from contact with civilization.

RAILROAD COLLISION IN INDIANA.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 28.—A special freight train came in collision with a regular freight train near Stockwell, on the Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago Railway this morning. Joseph Bowers, a fire-han, was killed, both locomotives were demolished, and leventy freight cars were thrown from the track.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 28 .- The Union Pacific and the Denver and Rio Grande contracted all day yes-erday at 50 cents per hundred pounds, from the Missouri liver to this city. The officers of the Union Pacific say hat the merchants of Salt Lake have, since Thursday, ordered goods to the amount of half a million dollars to tome over that road at the reduced tariff.

ARRIVAL OF PERE HYACINTHE.

HIS POSITION AND PURPOSES DEFINED.

STILL A CATHOLIC, BUT EAGER FOR REFORM-PAY-ING TRIBUTE TO HIS WIFE.

Père Hyacinthe Loyson arrived yesterday from Liverpool, by the steamship Alaska, and went to the Fifth Avenue Hotel. He is little changed in appearance since his last visit to New-York, which was made some thirteen years ago. His face has the same large, genial outline, although there are a few wrinkles around the eyes, and his hair is more sparse and gray, and now is worn long and flowing, instead of, as formerly, being cropped close. His manner has lost none of the charming vivacity of former days. He were the dress of an Anglican ritualist, and was writing his diary when a TRIBUNE reporter called, but at once he entered cordially into conver-called, but at once he entered cordially into conversation.

"I have had a somewhat stormy voyage," he said,
"and as I suffered severely from sea-sickness, I have not enjoyed the trip much. I am surprised to hear that the Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tyng, jr., is here, and I am much gratified to hear of the kind things he has said of me. I am anxious to rejoin my wife, who is a most admirable woman, possessed of a great mind and extraordinary capabilities. Her portraits do not do her justice, and her portrait in the Paris Salon is a frightful caricature. My wife has sustained me most nobly in my struggle. tained me most nobly in my struggle.

tained me most nobly in my struggle.

"As to my position, it is by no means so vague as my opponents make out. I am still a Catholic, for though I associate much with Anglicans, it is only because they are nearest to my deal of a reformed Catholic Church. I never had any intention of joining them. I believe that a reform within the Catholic Church is never that a reform within the Catholic Church. believe that a reform within the Catholic Charch is possible, and more and more wished for by the people and the lesser clergy. But the reform required is great, though chiefly in discipline, not in doctrine. I wish to place before the American public my idea of Christianity as a large and comprehensive system, repudiating all narrowness. Yet I cling to ancient Catholic doctrine, separating the Catholic Church from its later Roman accretions. I believe in the sacraments, the episcopacy and all the ancient doctrine of the Church. There will be nothing aggressive in my lectures. I think that such violent attacks as those of Père Chirrigny are imprudent and uncharitable.

"I have never yet had fairplay at Paris, because are imprudent and uncharitable.

"I have never yet had fairplay at Paris, because my charch edifice in the Rue d'Arras is so peor and badly situated. It has been erroneously stated that through the sympathy of the late Archbishop of Canterbury I have received large sums from England. The Archbishop was most kind, though not so much as the lamented Dean Stanley; but the pecuniary help that I received was small. The worry which the maintacance of my church has entailed has produced an illness, but apart from this I am quite happy. I wish every priest had as happy a home.

"I shall probably give two lectures in New York."

I shall probably give two lectures in New-York, I shall probably give two lectures in New-York, but the date is not fixed. I am leaving for Washington, where my wife and child await me, but I shall return in ten days. I consider that my books, from inaccurate translation, do not fairly represent my views, and I intend to bring out a collected edition, including my later orations on Garfield and Gambetta."

Gambetta."

The conversation was conducted wholly in French, the Pére being unable to speak any English. He is accompanied by a French Abbe, a canon of Perpignan, who is still in communion with the orthodox Church and says his mass daily. Pore Hyncinthe inquired after Assistant Bishop Potter, with whom he had corresponded, and expressed his gratification at the assistant bishop's elevation.

HURRYING TO MEET DEATH.

AN OLD MAN TAKES HIS LIFE BY A SHOT. HIS FAREWELLS TO THE MURCENARY AND LOVING -NO KNOWN CAUSE FOR THE ACT.

Caleb Pratt, who has been living for a number of years with his plece, Mrs. G. F. Sergeant, the wife of the manufacturer of folding-chairs at No. 816 Broadway, and who celebrated his seventy-third birthday a few days ago, yesterday shot himself through the head. days ago, yesterday shot himself through the head.

The wound caused instant death. Mr. Pratt ate breakfast with the family late in the morning, after in the cauvass, but it is only a "bilind" to divert attention akfast with the family late in the morning, after which he excused himself by saying that he was not feeling well and that he would lie down in his own room in the rear of the third floor of the house until dinner was ready. Nothing was seen of him until a few minutes after 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when Mrs. Sergeant went to call him. His door was closed but not locked, and as she pushed it open she saw her uncle lying on the floor, prone upon his back, motionless.

Mrs. Sergeant called her busband, and together they en tered the room and found Mr. Pratt lying in a pool of blood, with his head resting on a folded bed-spread directly under the open window. There was a hole, made by a 32-calibre bullet from a Smith & Wesson revolver, in the right side of the head, from which the blood was still oozing. He were simply his trousers and shirt, and he had apparently prepared himself beforehand with great deliberation before he took his life. Resting between his right arm and his body was a new silver-plated revolver. Within a few feet of his body stood a marble-top table. which was bestrewn with newspapers and scraps of writing paper. Among the latter was found an old mem-orandum of the New-York Gaslight Company, and on the back of it were scribbled in lead-pencil the following notes:

G. T. SERGEANT: Please pay to B. L. Pray 875, and charge to my account of $156 due me per your books.
CALES PRATT.

The last Sunday in October.
I will die as I have lived, free from all obligations of a mercenary character. Good-by to the mercenary, Goodby to the foving.
On the face of the memorandum were the words:

Please forward the letters dated two months back. Since hen I have waited for developments. Good-by. Neither Mr. Sergeant nor his wife were able to give any explanations of Mr. Pratt's suicide. He had not been regularly employed for many years. His last occupation regularly employed for many years. His last occupation was as a conductor on a Pullman palace-car running between this city and Buffalo. Of late he has been assisting Mr. Bergeant's book keepers in the business accounts, more to make him feel independent, as Mr. Bergeant explained, than anything else. He had been troubled by nothing except his age, and the only reason that Mr. Sergeant could give was that Mr. Pratt was simply thred of life. He did not know to what the letters mentioned in the dead man's farewell note related, and as to Mr. Pray, he was one of Mr. Pratt's old friends to whom he owed a small personal debt. Mr. Sergeant was not aware that his wife's uncle had a pistol in his possession, although when he had accepted as a conductor he had carried one.

Mr. Pratt was born in Boston and in his early life he had been employed on a minuther of railways. He was a widower and he left no children. With the exception of Mrs. Sergeant his relatives by the in Boston.

DEMANDING THAT ERIE SHALL SETTLE. EVIDENCE OF RATE-CUTTING LODGED WITH MR. FINK-A PRESIDENTS' MEETING CALLED.

The Pennsylvania and the New-York Central Railroads have demanded of Commissioner Fink the en-forcement of the trunk line pooling contract. A meeting of the committee of presidents has been called for next week, to discuss the situation. The two reads have assented reluctantly to the holding of the meeting, because they have urged that it was unnecessary. Should he choose to exercise the power, the Commissioner is vested with the right to call to account any road which has violated the pooling agreement, and execute the penalties provided for such violations. It is generally believed by railroad men that a crisis is approaching in rail road matters, which will be safely passed only by an open reduction in freight rates.

The numerous meetings held this year have been of no avail in stopping the entting of freight rates which has been going on since last February. The most serious offenders are said to be the Eric road and the Grand Trunk of Canada, Officials of these lines have denied the accusations, and when confronted with circumstantial evidence have ascribed all irregularities to their Western connections or fast freight lines operating over their entire systems. The disingen nousness of such defences is admitted by candid railroad officers. Certain it is that the course of traffic from nousness of such defences is admitted by candid railroad officers. Certain it is that the course of traffic from the West and the Southwest to the seaboard has been largely in favor of the Eric and the Grand Trunk road. A year ago the New-York Central was alread of its percentage of the west-bound business. That excess has been largely reduced this year, and, in addition, the Eric has exceeded its percentage of the east-bound traffic at the expense of both the Fennsylvania and the New-York Central. The only gains made at intervals by the two latter roads has been when the Eric lines have been temporarily gorged with traffic, and unable to supply all the cars required for the business offered.

The other trunk lines have accumulated positive evidence of the eating of rates by the Eric, and it has been placed in the hands of Commissioner Fink. Instances have been proved which could not be established at the last meeting of the Joint Executive Committee. Because of this the Eric's rivals have been urging on Mr. Fink his responsibility to enforce the pooling agreement without another conference of the trunk line presidents. The situation as regards the pool percentages is this: The Commissioner has made his awards on the east-bound trunk line pool. They are subject to appeal to arbitration and both the Eric and the Central have appealed. The pooling contract provides that pending a decision by arbitration settlements of money balances shall be made on the basis of the Commissioner's decision any necessary refunding of money is to be made. The Pronasylvania and the New-York Central now demand that the money due them on the percentages established by Mr. Fink shall be paid over at once by the Eric in accordance with the agreement and in all probability lead to an open war of rates. Railroad men do not believe that the Eric will take such a position, but it is certain that the friction between the trunk lines is constantly in-that the friction between the trunk lines is corrected by the Delaware, creasing.

The position of affairs is complicated by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road, which is outside the pool. A proposition to make an open reduction of rates to meet the Lackawanna was defeated at the last meeting of the presidents, and even if the Eric should agree to pay out a large sum from its treasury to the roads which claim it, the Lackawanna would still be an element of disturbance in rates. The opening of the West Shore road to Buffalo, which is announced for January 1, will also aggravate the situation unless the new line agrees to join the trunk line pool.

THE CANVASS IN BROOKLYN.

THE METHODS OF CANDIDATE HENDRIX. PARADING IN BORROWED PLUMES-MAYOR LOW'S ENGAGEMENTS.

There is no doubt that the old-time Democratic leaders want to secure the Mayor's office in Brooklyn to aid in carrying the State next year. Fine prot are made by candidate Hendrix that he will not do less for the city than Mayor Low has done; but he makes no specific promise not to use the City Government for party ends. Even if he should make such a promise, the leaders who are pushing him would not let him keep it. The self-respecting citizens of Brooklyn, who have seen the good fame of their city made known in all the land by the municipal reform of Mayor Low are not going to allow that good name to become smirched by "ring rule" as it has been in the past. No step in the Democratic campaign is taken with-out consultation with "Boss" McLaughlin, and he is to be found every evening on the sidewalk at Remsen and Court sts., in busy conference with ward leaders and others.

The phrase of one of the Republican speakers, that "We want, not a promising young man, but a performing young want, not a promising young man, but a performing young man, and that's Mayor Low," is one that takes held of the popular heart. As between the man with a record and the man with no record, there can be no question with fair-minded voters. There is nothing in the public utterances of Mr. Hendrix to commend him to the suffrages of the people, such as there was two years ago in Mayor Low's first campaign addresses. He can only repeat what Mayor Low has already made familiar to the public. But his efforts, such as they are, are plainly too much for him, and the exhausting work of the campaign is already telling upon a frame, which had to go to Europe to recruit after the alleged exhausting effort of attending the meetings of the Board of Education, and putting through a measure to authorize the payment of a fractional part of their salaries to teachers from whom it was unjustly withheld, and which was forced upon the attention of the Board of Education by an article in the coiumns of THE TRIBUNE. This is only another borrowed plume with which the candidate tries to deck himself, his other decorations being taken from Mayor Low.

MR. HENDEIX'S FALSE PRETENCES. A prominent Democrat said yesterday: "This is a campaign of false pretences on the part of Joseph McLaughlin Hendrix-which, if it isn't his real name, ought to be. He began by saying that the Presidential campaign had begun in in Brooklyn, which is totally untrue, for all the real issues of the campaign are municipal, as the speakers on both sides show. Then Mr. Hendrix was paraded as an orator, and no one ever spoke in public with less claim to the title. It was said that he could speak German and French as fluently as English. He attempted to make one German speech, but after lament-ing his unfamiliarity with the language despite some months in Germany last summer, and after speaking two hundred words, he claimed the indukence of his aniltence and spoke of the campaign to them in English. Then, too, he is paraded as a poor man, one who made his own way in the world, and in the same breath we are told that his father was a rich banker in Missouri. The fart is that his father gave him enough money to go through a college course at Cornell. He spent all of it in two years, and then took up newspaper work. When his father died several years afterward he inherited some property, and bought two houses in Brooklyn from a member of the Ring. He also speculated in Wall Street, and it is reputed to be worth $200,000. It is the sheerest folly to talk about the millionnaire Mayor and his bumble opponent. He is claimed to be an open, free-hearted, generous and able man, but it needs but little association with him to find out his real nature. He totally lacks the ability needed in the Mayor of in the canvase, but it is only a "blind" to divert attention from their own operations.

Temocratic disaffection continues, and upon the heels of the announcement that Charles S. Higgins, the wealthy soap manufacturer and a member of the Lemocratic State Committee, will support Mayer Low, comes the resignation of Supervisor Chamberlath, of the Twenty-second Ward, from the Kings County Democratic General Committee, in order to be untrammelled in the support of Mayor Low.

At a temperance meeting in the Brooklyn Rink yesterday, the Rev. Dr. Pulton declared that he would heartly support Mayor Low for re-election.

WORK FOR MAYOR LOW THIS WEEK, Two rousing Republican mass meetings will be held this week, one to-morrow night in the Academy of Music, where Mr. Bescher will preside and speak and Mayor Low and other will make addresses, and the other on Saturday evening in Music Hall. On other nights Mayor Low will speak from one to four times in various parts of the city. The campaign committees have more speakers than can majority as large as possible.

There is a great deal of dissatisfaction among the Republicans of the Hd. Assembly District because there has in the field, B. J. Mutholland, the present Republican member, has many supporters who are anxious for his renomination. They believe that he could carry the district as he did before, although it is generally benocratic. Mr. Mutholland's friends say that the delay is burting the party and seems to be in the interest of the Democratic. delay in putting B. J. Mulhelland, interest of the Democratis.

James Manhane has been notalizated for Senator against John C. Jacobs in the IVth District by the Trade and Labor Convention, the Knights of Labor, and "Indorsed" by the Anti-filing Democracy.

OBITUARY. EDWARD HODGES.

Edward Hodges, a retired merchant, died at his home in East Vifty third-st, yesterday, after a linger-ing illness. Mr. Hodges was for many years a partner in the firm of Allen, Paxson & Co., wholesale flour dealers, at No. 39 South William et., but had not been in business for fifteen years prior to his death. He was born of figlish parents, in this city, and was in his seventy-fifth year. He leaves a wife and two daughters.

CARDINAL BONNECHOSE. Paris, Oct. 28.—Cardinal Henri Marie Gaston

de Bouncehose, Archbishop of Rouen, is dead. Cardinal Bonnechose was born in Paris on May 30, 1880. After a distinguished career as a lawyer, his thoughts, in 1830, were turned to the priesthood. He was ordained at Strasburg and four years later was consecrated Bishop of Carcassonne. In 1847 he was trans inted to the see of Evreux. The Pope elevated him to the dignity of Cardinal in 1863. He thus became a member of the Senate, in which body he proved himself an ore or the Senate, in which body he proved himself an ardent defender of the temporal power of the Papacy. One of his addresses, which became memorable, em-hodied a demand that the French Government should op-pose the plans for the unity of Italy, in order to re-estab-lish the temporal power of the Holy See in its integrity. In 1869 Cardinal Bonnechose was made Commander in the Legion of Honor, His success was due largely to his power as an orator.

HARRY BURRARD FARNALL. London, Oct. 29.—Harry Burrard Farnall, C.B., is dead, age eighty-one years.

PRAISE FOR MAYOR LOW.

A meeting was held at the Brooklyn Music Hall yesterday for the discussion of the relations between Prohibition and the Mayoralty of that city. Many women were in the audience. General T. W. Conway was chairman. A. L. Martin championed the interests of C. C. Le-the Prohibition candidate, and was replied to by T. C. the Prohibition candidate, and was replied to by I. C. Cronin, who after repeated calls, mounted the platform and made a ringing speech for Seth Low, in which he explained the Mayor's standing in relation to the licensing of liquor dealers and the non-inforcement of the Sunday law. Mr. Cronin was frequently interrupted by applause. The meeting was also addressed by several members of the Vonen's Christian Temperence Union, who are on their way from New-England to the National Temperance Convention at Detroit, Michigan.

PRIZE-WINNING HOESES TO BE SOLD.

was formally dedicated yesterday afternoon. The speakers were: E. W. Hawley, G. A. Bell, David M. Stone and the Rev. A. J. F. Behrends. In the evening addresses were made by I. J. Tilney and Rev. A. F. Schauffer. The structure cost about $15,000, and was put up by the Cen-tral Congregational Church.

THE GOOD OF NOVEL READING. MR. COLLYER'S EXPERIENCE-LED TO READ SCOTT

BY A BOOK AGAINST HIM. In a sermon on "Novel-Reading," at the Church of the Messiah, last night, the Rev. Robert Coll-yer said: "If it be a sin or a disgrace to read novels, no matter what may be their quality or purpose, then I must confess myself to the disgrace and the sin." He took the congregation into his confidence, and told how he first imbibed his love for reading storics from his good mother, who, though she read no other book than the Bible, and had only such knowledge as sprang from the "good heart," yet had the true story-teller's instinct, and the stories she told seemed to him in after-years to be the best he had ever heard. "I wonder," he said, "if the mothers of our time who read so many stories can tell stories to their children so that they will afterward seem to be the very best." His mother's stories were always clean and bright and wholesome, so that when he began to read stories himself he found no bad tidings among them. On leaving home he fell into the hands of some extremely plous people who regarded novel-reading as a sin. He found in the library a ponder-whale gen and bomb-lance; Thomas A. Iving, Glouester, for model of three-masted schooner; Old Colony Mills, Plymouth, for canvas used in fishing vessels; J. & H. J. Green, New-York City, for learnemeters, thermometers, etc.; W. L. Baille, U. S. N., for deep-sea thermometer case; A. W. Dodd & Co., Glouester, Mass., for cod liver eraulston.

The following received silver medals: United States Fish Commission, for exhibits of dredges, for appearants for the manufacture of fishery products, for model of car for the manufacture of fishery products, for model of car for the transportation of young fish, and for collection of large photographs illustrative of fishe-ulture; Professor G. Brown Goode, Washington, for publications relating to the fisheries; Captain J. W. Collins, Gloucester, Mass., for marine drag; Marshall McDonald, Washington, for collection of marine algal; Alaska Commercial Company, San Francisco, for cellection of marine algal; Alaska Commercial Company, San Francisco, for cellection of sealskins; Tiffany & Co., New-York City, for general exhibit of trout and salmon rods; William Mitchell, New-York City, for general exhibit of trout and salmon rods; B. AN UNFINISHED PRIZE-FIGHT.

AN UNFINISHED PRIZE-FIGHT.

About two hundred sporting men from South Brooklyn, Williamsburg and New-York visited a well-known sporting resort in the neighborhood of Long Island City on Saturday night to witness a "real old-fashioued" prize-fight, according to the Marquisof Queensberry rules, The fight was between "Mickey" Cummings, alias "Mick the Stuff," of Williamsburg, and "Jack" McCarthy, better known among his kind by the sobriquet of "English Jack," for a purse of $100 a side and the middle-weight championship of Brooklyn, After three rounds, in which McCarthy bad the advantage, though little science was shown by either man, somebody exclaimed: "The police are on us." The crowd dispersed in all directions, a prominent Brooklyn politician having his new "plug" hat dedestroyed in the stampede. When quiet was restored it was discovered that the police alarm was false, and those who had remained returned to the room where the ring was pitched. When time was called for the fourth round, McCarthy stepped into the ring, but the "Stuff" could not be found. McCarthy claimed the stakes, but the referce refused to give them up, saying, "the men shall fight it out if it takes all winter." McCarthy's friends were indignant, and there would have been a free light but for the interference of the owner of the hall, who turned out the gas and ordered all bands out of his place. It was learned yesterday that the men would meet again next week in the vicinity of Coney Island. ity of Coney Island.

THE NEW BALTIMORE AND OHIO CABLE The third cable of the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph Company across the Narrows from Fort Hamilton to Fort Wadsworth was successfully laid vesterday. The first cable was laid in Angast, 1882, and the second in April last. The new cable is 6,500 feet long, 1% inches in diameter, and of No, 3 armor. It weighs twelve tons. It completes 21 miles of cable in the Baltimore and Ohio's line from New York to Baltimore. Among those present vesterday were Robert Stewart, general superintendent of the company; C. W. Price, New-York manager; J. C. Hankinson, superintendent of construction, under whose direction the cable was laid; A. J. Day, the manufacturer, and his wife; Judge Church, of Fort Hamilton; J. H. Bunnell, and F. Joline.

When everything is taken in a model of cheapness, enterprise and convenience, and is the best reflex of the day's doings of all things ever invented. Leaving out of the account the advertisements and special notices (many of which are more important to some readers than the reading matter), and counting nothing but that which is of interest to the general reader, there is often purchased for four or five cents an amount of good reading on a variety of interesting subjects that would make a book of 500 pages if set in the ordinary long primer type, and would cost in that form from seventy-five cents to $1.50 per copy. The New-York publishers will also find out, after they have tried it long enough, that the new class of readers that they have been catering for have not been secured by the reduction in price, as they anticipated. As a general rule, the man who refuses to buy a paper for the convenience and information of himself and family at five cents, will refuse it at any price, and his patronage will not be secured by the reduction. If the big blanket sheets would put their news in a more condensed form, abendom their unwield; and useless supplements, and publish a less amount of unimportant matter that is never read by any one except the proof-reader, both the publishers and their customers would be the gainers.
